

One day they decided to travel to Earth in spaceships to look for underpants.

They had enormous fun inventing competitions involving the underpants.

Whoosh! The aliens were gone.

They landed in a garden that had lots of underpants hanging on a washing line.

The aliens loved underpants so much that they created tall statues of them.

Remember... always check for aliens hiding in your underpants!

Once upon a time some aliens lived on a planet where there were no underpants.

When they spotted a human, they ran to their spaceship.
